

Experiences and Skills to Share

What Do You Have to Share?

Teachers often seek parents and community members with expertise to share in the classroom. Career experience, special interests, hobbies and skills you have developed are all resources that can be helpful to teachers and students.

What are your areas of expertise? Are you more comfortable talking to the classes about your career or special interest or would you rather just be a resource for teachers to contact you? Please indicate what you would be willing to share and we will use the information to create a resource list for teachers. Return to Seabury office on first day of school.
